Alex counsels public companies, private companies, private equity firms, and mezzanine and other investors on their day-to-day corporate activities and guides them through mergers and acquisitions, securities disclosure and compliance matters, securities offerings, corporate governance and board matters, and equity investments.

Alex works closely with clients to address the many legal, regulatory, and business challenges they face on a day-to-day basis. He takes the time to learn and understand his clients' businesses from the inside out to ensure maximum effectiveness and the highest level of service. Clients benefit from his exceptional level of commitment to their success, which is reflected in the strong, lasting relationships he has built as an integral member of client teams.

Alex brings a practical approach to his counseling. He stays focused on the long-term goals of his clients while carefully navigating the various steps along the way.

Alex's interdisciplinary practice allows him to work closely with all of the other practice groups at ArentFox Schiff. His ability to identify the needs of his clients allows him to efficiently collaborate with professionals who can maximize his effectiveness as legal counsel.
